Stay: Overnight at Kalapari Camp

Activity: Short high-altitude trek, acclimatization and mountain exploration

Day 4: Kalapari Camp | Rest, Acclimatization and Himalayan Exploration

- Take a well-deserved rest day at Kalapari Camp to recover from the previous trekking sections and adjust to the high-altitude environment.
- Explore the scenic surroundings of the campsite and enjoy breathtaking views of the Warwan Valley and nearby Himalayan peaks.
- If weather and trail conditions permit, take a short walk or hike to nearby viewpoints for panoramic mountain scenery.
- Capture the beauty of snow-covered peaks, alpine meadows and the surrounding landscapes through photography.
- Spend time interacting with fellow trekkers and enjoying the peaceful atmosphere of the Himalayan wilderness.
- Observe the local flora and fauna, while remembering that wildlife sightings are not guaranteed.
- Use the rest day for relaxation, meditation or gentle stretching, depending on your comfort and altitude conditions.
- Stay hydrated and enjoy nutritious meals to maintain energy for the upcoming trekking days.
- Spend the evening appreciating the clear mountain skies and, when conditions allow, enjoying stargazing away from city lights.
- Check your trekking equipment, clothing and essential supplies to ensure you are prepared for the next stage of the expedition.
- Follow your trek leader's guidance regarding acclimatization, activity levels and readiness for the upcoming route.

Stay: Overnight at Kalapari Camp

Activity: Rest day, acclimatization and optional local exploration
